

Intervention with High-Risk Children: The Regulated Learning Environment

Friday, April 11 | 12:10-1:30pm | Andrews Conference Room, 2203 SS&H

DR. STEPHANIE JONES is the Marie and Max Kargman Associate Professor of Human Development and Urban Education at the Harvard Graduate School of Education. Jones is a developmental psychologist whose work focuses on the longitudinal effects of poverty and exposure to violence on social and emotional development in early childhood and adolescence. In addition, she conducts evaluation research focusing on the developmental impact of school-based interventions targeting children's executive functioning, self-regulation, their broad social-emotional skills and aggressive behavior, as well as basic academic skills.
